Procedures on seeking approval for applying courses outside ILS to the MIS degree:

“A maximum of 6 graduate credit hours from outside the IU Department of Information and Library Science may, in certain circumstances and with the permission of the program director, be applied to the MIS Degree. These 6 credit hours may be taken in other schools and departments of Indiana University or in another appropriately accredited collegiate institution. Outside courses are warranted only when they are more relevant to students’ career objectives and will contribute more to the enrichment of their program than would additional ILS courses. Ordinarily, permission for such outside course work must be obtained before enrolling in the course. The course must be completed with a grade of B or higher, must be taken within the five-year time frame allowed for completion of the degree.” (SLIS Bulletin 1998-2000, page 11)

Where an outside course seems warranted, the student should discuss the course with his or her assigned academic advisor early in the MIS program. After discussion, the student should submit a written statement as to how the course will enhance the planned program of study. This statement should be submitted on the outside course approval form (reverse of this announcement). A copy of the course description from the university bulletin should be attached. The faculty advisor will forward these documents to the office of the dean for final approval.

The student should keep in mind that 36 of the 42 credit hours required for the MIS degree must be taken in ILS. If 6 credit hours in library and information science are transferred in from another institution, additional subject credit hours will not be considered.
